That chain of sharing beckons young minds,
 binds sorrows and joys
 in unknown paths of friendship.
 Warm glances, those links to contentment,
 are cherished.
 Voices exchange
 interests, ideas, and ideals.
 Response to kindness
 instills steadfast trust,
 lifeblood and spirit,
 in vital chain of harmony.

Generations unite,
as mysteries,
intricacies,
and complexities
are focused then solved.
Learner and learned ponder
the puzzles,
riddles,
and rhymes —
search in union to achieve.
Master of wisdom
and challenger of times
add links to the chain
in a perpetual circle of trust and belief.

Activities are outlets
of hopes
and desires.
Students
become leaders to combine strength
and determination.
Members contribute to united ideals.
Originality and thought — intensity fused.
Individuals struggle
to find a nook of belonging, discovering
common ties in the organization.
Enthusiasm symbolizes
a bond
of oneness,
as individuals
evolve from the crowds.

A haven, a prison,
a formation of bricks, steel, glass.
Enveloping the different,
the forlorn, the separate
into a continual kaleidoscope.
Chambers
bursting with the curious.
The corridors between — a vacuum.
Hunger is appeased,
confusion made simple,
love is born,
companionships flower.
All in a building, a friend itself.

Study links the tangible with intellect.
To think, to enjoy, to wonder,
to understand,
to question, to believe, to discover.
Learning widens horizons,
sharpens perceptions,
and connects a mind's frontiers with the unexplored.
A person is free
only within himself.
A constant striving for knowledge binds
a man with his mind,
fuses achievement
with comprehension.
To study
forms a bridge between thought and life.

Shouting,
cheering, crying,
laughing,
tension, relief, triumph, defeat.
Individuals unite
for a single purpose —
to support.
Differences in personalities
vanish,
as many become one.
All with identical
reactions and emotions.
All keyed to excitement,
filled with spirit,
hope.

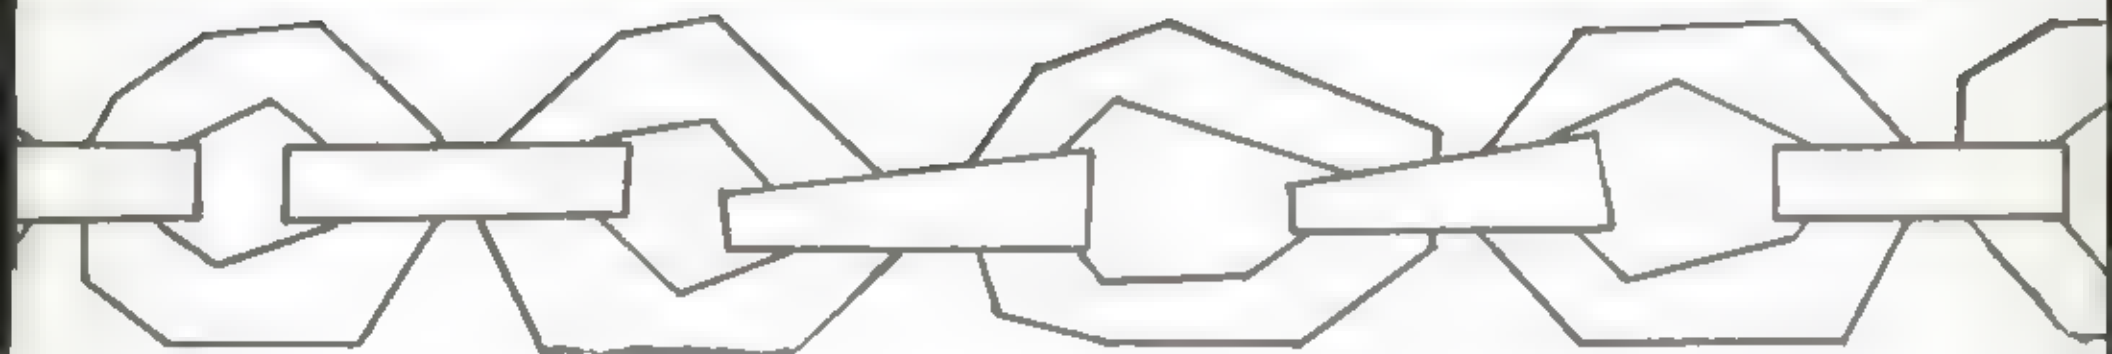

Hands
are clasped
firmly in a chain of unity. Bonds of security encompass faith and trust. Intertwined efforts represent link in a sphere of achievement.

Individuals
strive to combine special talents in one group of many to form the substance of Sylvania. Aspirants cling to common goals while the links in the chain are welded for success.

Administration ties trust, faith into school unity

Above left, serving as business manager of the school system, was Mr. Richard Fuller, assistant superintendent. Above right, construction and maintenance of all buildings fell under the supervision of Mr. Hugh Straught. Lower right, Mr. George Erickson, federal coordinator, handled the federal funds allotted to Sylvania City Schools.

Center, the members of the Sylvania Board of Education were Mr. William Crandell, Mr. G. E. Keefer, Mr. Stanley Hesselbart, Mr. Gordon Deye, and Mr. Richard Kimmel; standing, Mr. Clyde Plant and Mr. Norman Bischoff.

Working closely with the board of education, Mr. Clyde Plant, superintendent of the Sylvania City Schools, oversaw all the activities of the schools. Assistant superintendent, Mr. Richard Fuller, was in charge of all business procedures, selection of all secretarial personnel, and student transportation. Mr. Fuller worked in close connection with Mr. Hugh Straight on the construction and maintenance of the Sylvania buildings.

Acting as federal coordinator was Mr. George Erickson, while Mr. Richard Kimmel handled the treasury. The purpose of Mrs. Maxine Putman's job was to cooperate with principals and teacher committees and to head the teacher recruitment plan. All of these coordinators strove to secure student and teacher relation bonds.

Mr. Clyde Plant, in the third year as superintendent was always bettering Sylvania High and our community. Better school buildings, improved curriculum, and higher teaching standards were included in improving the educational system.

Mr. Richard Kimmel, above, clerk-treasurer served as recording secretary and treasurer of the board. Left, Mrs. Maxine Putman, director of curriculum, was responsible for continuous development and improvement of all levels of the curriculum.

Key figures coordinate past experience, skills

Mr. Roy Becker, in his first year as principal of Sylvania High School, stepped from the position of assistant principal, a position he commanded for three years.

Because of his 17 years experience with the high school, Mr. Becker was able to do a great deal for the welfare of the school and its students. Along with the assistant principal, Mr. James Glase, he guided the 1584 students along the paths of secondary education. Overseeing all public relations and work with the teachers, he promoted school unity.

A man of many duties, Mr. Glase wrote excuses, ordered all text books, and scheduled functions and activities. In addition, he continued his duties as athletic director.

Ready to lead Sylvania through another day, Principal Roy S. Becker enters Sylvania reminiscent of the responsibilities his position entails.

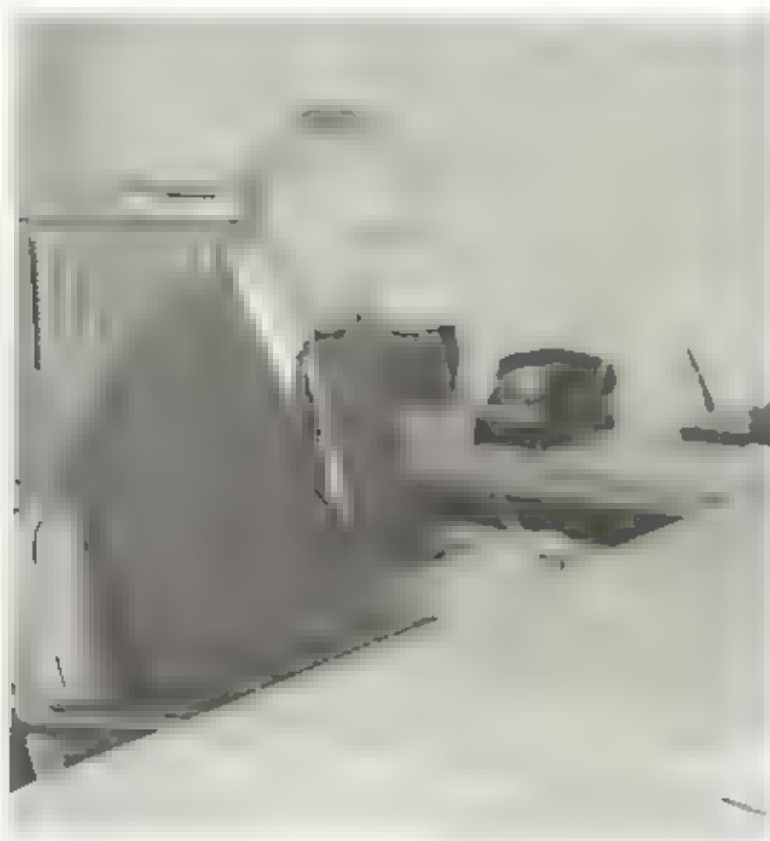

Duty calls as Mr. Becker maintains solid relations with civic leaders.

Leadership of Mr. James Glase serves to build firm foundations for successful endeavors.

Secretaries Mrs. Rita Peterson, Mrs. Anna Flickinger, and Mrs. Debbie Blackford help to keep the school running efficiently by typing, sorting mail, bookkeeping and handling outside correspondence.

Combined tasks of Mr. Roy Becker set harmony into school pace

English paths direct flow of understanding

Foreign languages and speech had one thing in common — indoctrinating the students with the essence of communication. The foreign languages offered were French, Spanish, Latin, and German, a new course this year. Labs helped students to speak more fluently and to comprehend more readily, furthering the ties of understanding.

Sylvania's speech and debate departments gave students the opportunity to use their minds by projecting their thoughts.

Journalism aspirants had learned the basics of publication through work on the Wyandotte, the yearbook, and The Student Prints, the newspaper.

Several media relate avenues of communication

Spanning the vistas of communication, Sylvania's English department was constantly adopting new techniques of teaching. In its second year, the American literature lecture-seminar proved very beneficial in improving student's interest in literature. All English teachers introduced students to well-known authors and their works, while reading classes increased accurate and rapid reading skills. Senior composition classes emphasized general writing skills to prepare pupils for college and further work. Each teacher tried to create a challenge to tax the student's ability to comprehend.

Teaching the students to understand and participate in the social, economic, and political problems of today was the main function of the social studies department. Realizing the need for knowledge of the leaders and culture of our country, the school offered many varied courses to link the present to the past. American history taught the heritage of the country while vocational history related concepts of our country to everyday life. Seniors were required to take government and had their option of either sociology or economics. The study of world history helped students gain a better knowledge of today's world by correlating events of yesterday with today.

Theories synthesize doubts into certainties

Soaring into the exactness of the mind is a full-time job for students in the math and science departments. Precision is a much strived-for goal, yet the student is not stifled in creativity. It is the aim of these departments to encourage the student in pursuing his interest as far as possible. State and national competition spur activity in an explorative atmosphere. Competition is keen and Sylvania teachers spend much time directing and coaching students in the attempt to attain paramount standards of knowledge.

Commercial skills open doors of business world

In its quest to teach students the fundamentals of business, the business department attempted to create typical office conditions by the utilization of modern office machines. Students received a background in business math, business English, shorthand, bookkeeping, and typing, and those in office practice acquired secretarial experience. Seniors took advantage of the distributive education program to learn marketing, merchandising, and business operations and had practical experience in all of these in the work program. Insight into public relations ethics was gained by these future leaders of the business world.

Two coordinate sections of specialized learning were Trade and Industrial education and industrial arts. Designed to stimulate the vocational talents of the participants, they also provided a basic educational foundation for future careers. T&I consisted of four separate departments: automotive service, machine trades, carpentry, and electronics. Most workers were upperclassmen who had completed the first phase of learning in industrial arts as sophomores. Serving as an exploratory outlet where students were exposed to all areas of trade, the vocational center aided them in their choice of specialization for the following years. Learning welding, plastics, metal, woodcraft, and drafting, students were responsible for one project in a field each six weeks.

Specialized areas catered to the creative interests of the students. Homemaking taught household skills along with child care and development. Artistically inclined students tried their hands at pottery, mosaics, graphic arts, block printing, and painting. The a cappella choir, band, orchestra, and music appreciation and theory classes provide outlets for those with music ability. Through intensive indoor and outdoor gym classes, students became more physically fit. The library and resource center were valuable sources for students and teachers alike, containing visual aid equipment, records, films, and an impressive collection of books.

Mr. Thomas Tonneberger, above, sophomore adviser, and Mr. Elwood Edinger, above right, junior adviser, direct the students in their academic programs. Miss Rose Standish, below, guides graduating seniors to higher education. Mr. Walter Woodhull, below right, vocational counselor, assists boys in their specialized fields of trades and industries.

Well-known persons seen during the day throughout the halls or in their offices are Sylvania's guidance counselors. Miss Rose Standish, Mr. Thomas Tonneberger, and Mr. Elwood Edinger have been affiliated with Sylvania for several years, and in September Mr. Walter Woodhull joined the trio to contribute vocational counseling to the students. Vocational students are now more personally aided in choosing an appropriate field of study for future occupations. Miss Standish, senior counselor, guides graduating students in their choices of colleges and professions. For the underclassmen, both Mr. Edinger and Mr. Tonneberger assist students in correlating courses with abilities and future plans.

With leadership and determination untested, seniors began their year. This drive came to light the night of the homecoming dance, "Touchdown at Twilight," when several seniors and underclassmen joined to form a band before the belated arrival of the professional musicians. Class meetings in the Little Theatre allowed seniors the opportunity to voice their opinions on upcoming events. In keeping with the time, the seniors sponsored a dance, "The Great Pumpkin Strikes?" October 28, where masked and costumed students revelled in the gym, mixing merriment and mirth. The year passed fleetingly with the senior breakfast, skit, and the Student Council variety show, concluding with the prom in May. June came all too soon, bringing graduation and baccalaureate for the still enthusiastic seniors. The ceremonial close of the year revealed the many steadfast and enduring ties of the Class of '68.

Working to coordinate class functions, senior advisers Mrs. Georgia Baird, Mr. James Slagle, and Mrs. Sharon Gulchrist supplied the final link to the chain of senior events.

Serving as a link between incoming sophomores and graduating seniors, the junior class returned with experience and enthusiasm for a successful second year. Obtaining long-awaited class rings marked an important milestone as tradition was broken and juniors changed to rings with round stones.

The class made many plans for its first formal dance, "A Winternight's Enchantment," a memorable prom that preceded the Christmas holidays.

Individuality played an important part as juniors excelled in athletics, dramatics, academics, and student government. The annual Fun-Nite in March enhanced the year, and elections for senior officers were the last duties before this class relinquished the title of "the juniors."

In September, the largest class ever to enter Sylvania began their high school days. Six hundred and fifty-one sophomores made themselves known by cheering their junior varsity athletes on and participating in a cappella choir, band, orchestra, sophomore choir, speech and drama. Elections of class officers October 25, helped to mold the class into a solid unit. The traditional class party March 8, was one of the highlights of the Class of '70's first year at Sylvania arousing enthusiastic inhibitions of the sophomores. As the year closed, the sophomores prepared for their junior year by selecting class rings, electing next year's officers May 8, and planning the date of their Junior Prom.

In united leadership, Student Council guides SHS

As the governing body of Sylvania, Student Council initiated all major projects throughout the year. Guided by president Mark Brunner, Council began working in the summer, holding meetings once a month. Through the pre-school weeks, the constitution was revised, committees were formed, and a calendar for the 1967-68 school year was compiled. The back-to-school dance, "From Dog Days to Slave Days," gave future SHS'ers a taste of council efficiency. Each member was assigned a home room where he gave a report and related the assembly minutes. To the seniors' delight, a special group researched the possibility of eliminating final exams. Regulations and qualifications of holding any office or position of leadership were examined, and an amendment was made in the constitution in reference to removal from office.

Above, Shirley Knepper, Joyce Frutiger, and Bob Knowles complete committee work in C-7 Student Council headquarters. Below, at a student council meeting, Mark Brunner listens to Gary Barcus's comments.

Committees of Student Council provided a chance for members to specialize in fields of talent and interest. Sportsmanship Committee made victory and spirit signs during the football and basketball season, and also sold Wildcat folders to spur teams to top potential. Class guidelines, compiled by organizations committee members, served as a set of regulations for present and future classes of Sylvania and bear a resemblance to formal constitutions. The Safety Committee sponsored car checks throughout the year and set controls on student parking. The Spurriows, a young singing group, presented a safety program directed toward teenage drivers. A new committee, Evaluations, maintained a system of checking the efficiency of both the Council groups and the individual members. Different ideas for Council via the suggestion box were handled by publicity committee members, who also planned bulletin boards displaying Council news. Two students of the week were regularly chosen by the Welfare Committee, which highlighted its schedule with a field day.

Each year the American Field Service has brought a foreign student to Sylvania for a year of study. Leonor Ortiz, this year's exchange student from Argentina, entered Sylvania life with the help of all AFS members. She soon became a staunch supporter of SHS, and her enthusiasm matched that of any Wildcat. The computer dance was just one of the new ideas advanced by the Projects Committee. This organization also brought Sylvania the gym's microphone mixer to improve sound during assemblies. All student elections were sponsored by the Elections Committee, which regulated voter registration and vote tallying. Judi Welty was the candidate for TASC queen, and represented SHS at the area dance. Members of Toledo Area Student Council attended meetings and kept Sylvania Council active in citywide projects.

Assisting faculty becomes part time duty

Balancing accounts and keeping them up to date did not worry the 47 organizations of Sylvania High School. Under the direction of Mr. Ted Dennison, school treasurer, Linda Young and Pat Baumann worked hard counting money, stamping and writing checks. Besides rendering services to school organizations, the workers took care of all athletic finances and other monetary necessities in Sylvania.

Preparing showcases and bulletin boards, shelving, filing, checking out books and magazines were among the tasks taken on by the library staff. Supervised by Mrs. Betty Follas, the library staff had guest speakers such as senior Ann Mroz, who talked about her trip to Poland. She brought souvenirs and postcards to share with the members. Christmas was celebrated by an informal party with refreshments, records, and a movie.

Business groups train members for careers

Members of Business Office Education and Distributive Education Clubs of America participated in many fields of activity dealing with business transactions. Girls in BOE gained experience in the secretarial field. Many were recruited by the office to type, file records, and take shorthand. Students in DECA I and II learned the skills of advertising, marketing, selling, and distribution through part-time jobs.

Wyandotte staff meets deadlines for spring publication

Before the 1967 school year began, Wyandotte staffers were chosen, spring sports pictures were taken, and $2,500 in advertising was sold. When classes resumed, adviser Mr. Frederick Marlo initiated a new procedure, a two-week training course to acquaint the staff with the aspects of yearbook organization. Actual production began with the selection of section editors who were guided by co-editors Geri Crossland and Vicki Tallman. Four deadlines were met through combined efforts exemplified third period and in sessions after school. Every spare moment was spent taking pictures, writing copy, and planning layouts. Dedication was evident throughout the year in order to complete the Wyandotte that would encapsulate 1967-68 at Sylvania.

Future journalists learn techniques with "The Prints"

Expanding to "the illustrious length of six pages," from last year's four, Sylvania's bi-weekly newspaper, The Student Prints, evoked thought and devotion from 28 staffers. Greater expression in column writing was revealed in "From the Editor's Desk," "Suethsayer," and "Ed's Sportlights." Other facets of communication were related in a book and movie review, a section of classroom anecdotes, and fashion innovations. In addition, the staff developed an editorial policy—"We endeavor to publish informative, objective, and entertaining material in a manner befitting ideals for which we strive." Culmination of the journalists' diligence emerged at the annual Northwestern Ohio District Journalism Association banquet where the newspaper was rated with other offset press editions.

Honor societies give recognition to meritorious work

Promoting scholarship, character, and responsibility was the primary goal of two of Sylvania's honor societies, I-Questers and National Forensic League. Besides providing a program where distinguished speakers were invited to address I-Questers, this society sponsored the Annual Science Symposium and Honors Week. The Symposium brought noted scientists from around the country to speak on their fields of specialization. A berth in NFL was earned by obtaining twenty-five points in speech and debate contests. Further points led to special awards and recognition. This year, qualified speakers attended the national contest at Kent State University, where they competed against the nation's outstanding orators.

National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll are two honorary organizations that have been promoted in high schools throughout the nation. NHS maintained leadership, scholarship, character, and service as its standards. Requisites for this year were a 3.5 average and leadership and service points. Quill and Scroll, the honorary society for high school journalists, included staff members of "The Student Prints" and W'yandotte with the necessary requirements. Club cohorts published the second volume of the "Syllabus," a literary magazine which contained compositions from the English department. Membership was supplemented by inductions in January and May. An annual dinner at the Hostess House in Delta concluded the year.

Students begin job interests in career clubs

Home and industry interests were revealed by participants in Future Business Leaders of America Clubs and Future Homemakers of America Clubs. Home economics girls under Mrs. Ruth Vaznelis and Mrs. Janet Crandell with at least one year of experience were invited to become members. They made gifts for the Sunshine Children's Home and earned money toward the state scholarship fund. In the spring, the award of merit was presented to deserving girls. Students in FBLA acquired further knowledge of business and its transactions under the leadership of Mrs. Sandra Jones and Mrs. Linda Dardenne. On the year's agenda were assembling a Thanksgiving basket, a bowling party after school, a tobogganing party, and a picnic in the spring.

Avenues to medicine and education were opened to members of Medical Careers Club and Future Teachers of America. Piloted by Jim Gawrych, president, and Mrs. Marjorie Engle, adviser, the medical aspirants hosted distinguished doctors, nurses, a veterinarian and a mortician. One guest invited to speak at an evening meeting was Dr. Frank Rawling, a dermatologist on the planning committee for Toledo Medical College. FTA provided background information for prospective instructors under the supervision of Mrs. Bernice Musick. According to tradition, some of Sylvania's student teachers spoke at a monthly meeting. In December FTA sponsored an area caroling party at the Sunset House. Members gained insight from a visit to local elementary schools in the spring.

Natives of Spain, France, and Germany spoke to members of Modern Language Club periodically. In 1968, a symposium allowed club members to gain information on customs of western Europe and professions involving a knowledge of their languages. The club sponsored a dance in January and following a practice initiated last year, prepared a variety of dishes for an international dinner.

Student participation was the backbone of Sylvania's extra-curricular chemistry organization. Occasionally, the student demonstrations were augmented by speakers such as Dr. Robert Santelli, from the Forest Products division of Owens Illinois, who explained the manufacture of paper. Advisers Mr. Emmet Sheronick and Mrs. Marilee Jones further encouraged members by aiding them with after-school experiments.

Latin

Utilization of Latin in songs, skits, and games constituted the meetings of Latin Club under the direction of Mrs. Bernice Musick. Highlight of the Roman Banquet at which time, members attired themselves in the true Roman fashion of togas and stolas, was the meal "from soup to nuts," served by freshman Latin students dressed as Roman slaves.

Providing encouragement for competent students, the Math Club strived to extend development of ideas beyond normal classroom study. Usually, the young mathematicians spent their time searching for solutions to intricate problems of developing formulas which interested them most. Since meetings did not provide adequate time for probing theorems and concepts, night seminars served as valuable discussion sessions and promoted teamwork.

Orators develop talent, eloquence in speech fields

Searching for a better means of expression, students obtained membership in Drama Club and its honorary society, Thespians. Guided by Mr. George Bang, dramatists planned monthly activities to further the students' interest in a knowledge of the dramatic arts. In December, Mrs. Ruth Leer, box office chairman of the "Village Players," spoke to members, relating acting opportunities. Other meetings featured a musical skit and visits of dramatists from "Toledo Repertoire Theater." Thespians is a formation of students who obtained points by participating in plays, working behind the scenes, and actively participating in the speech team.

"Resolved: that congress should establish uniform regulations to control criminal investigation procedures." This resolution picked by a National Forensic League committee was the topic which provided the foundation for the 1968 chapter of SHS's Debate Club. From the club, students were chosen to go to the tournaments to debate the above topic. Mr. Paul Hoefel, adviser, and the debaters raised funds for the tournaments by working on school dramatic productions, by sponsoring an after-the-game dance, and by organizing a car wash. To furnish the club with first-hand information, Judge George Glasser and Mr. James Baird, a criminal lawyer, were brought in to be interrogated by the members

Members of the Youth For Christ Club were bound together in Christian fellowship for the purpose of living for Christ at school. In November, Toledo University grid star Tom Beutler conveyed his thoughts to the students on how faith helped his life, and in the December meeting, a missionary from Upper Volta discussed music and communication. The Toledo Area YFC met for bi-weekly rallies at Washington Junior High School where folk-singing groups, movies, and speakers were featured. The Teen Olympics highlighted joint efforts with local basketball, volleyball, and bowling contests. The winning group journeyed to Columbus for the state wide competition.

Vocational clubs provide outlet for specialization

Technical facets of science and industry were displayed by the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America and the Engineering Club. Leadership abilities were evidenced by junior Fred Czaja who became president of Northwest Ohio Area VICA. All active members supported one division of the Trade and Industry program—either carpentry and electronics or machine and auto. Under Mr. Graves and Mr. Althoff, C&E sponsored a car wash which enabled officers to attend the state convention in Columbus and provided funds for field trips. Directed by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Mohn, those in M&A raised money from a dance to have their area represented at the same convention.

Through individual electrical and chemical projects, students expanded their scientific abilities in the Engineering Club. Group discussions under Mr. Berning helped the scientists air their problems and find solutions.

Small specialty groups practice, perform

One of the loudest and largest supporters of the football team was the Wildcat Marching Band, which practiced many hours for the weekly Friday night football halftime performance. At the end of the grid season, bandmen, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Watson, Mr. Richard Field, and Mr. Larry Holcomb, returned to their concert instruments in preparation for their first concert and district contest. Continuing school spirit, the pep band performed at all pep assemblies and at many of the home basketball games.

When the five SHS'ers returned, marching band practice was in session, with majorettes working on their half-time routines. This year Sandy Miko was head majorette, while Connie Draime and Kathy Ulgener completed the squad. Another section of the instrumental organization was the German Band which played at many public affairs such as the Sylvania Sidewalk Sale in August and the annual Band and Orchestra Swiss Steak Dinner in January.

Trained voices blend music with a sense of meaning

Inspired by the contagious enthusiasm of director Mr. Louis Davis, the a cappella choir's spirit soared in every performance throughout the year. In order to provide an opportunity for Sylvania students to appreciate its musical accomplishments, the choir presented two major concerts celebrating Christmas and welcoming spring. The spring concert featured a double brass choir from the University of Michigan School of Music. At other times during the year, professors from this music school served as guest conductors. The choir was especially busy during the Christmas season singing and caroling around Toledo at such places as Sylvania Country Club. Later in the year, the choir participated in district and state music contests, featuring solo, ensemble, and group competition. The final activity of the group was a banquet with honors awarded to outstanding choir members.

Girls participate in sports, earn points in GAA

Boasting over 300 members, the Girls Athletic Association ranked largest among the clubs at Sylvania. Girls were able to display their athletic abilities by participating in diverse intramural sports such as volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, softball, badminton, and folk dancing. Selling football and basketball programs, working on committees, and organizing Tag Day were other activities through which girls were able to earn points for a GAA letter, pin, or trophy. Girls wishing to promote intramurals and develop better skills and leadership in gymnastics could earn membership into GAA's elite group, Leaders Club. Requisites for junior or senior girls were 400 GAA points, a 2.3 grade average, and an A or B in physical education.

By participating in intramurals, Gail Lower, Lisa Graumach, Sara Cross, Linda Robison, Patti Paris, and Karen Underhill earn GAA points.

Fleet trackmen set winner's pace in all events

Under the direction of Coach Mike Craden, the 1967 Sylvania track team obtained an overall record of eight wins and three losses. Elected by the team at the beginning of the year as co-captains were '67 graduates Mitch Kingsley and John Hanson. Of the six new records, Kingsley set two with a time of 4:29.7 for the mile and 9:40.2 for the two-mile run. One of the many highlights of this year was the winning of the Defiance College Alumni Relays.

Netmen ace opponents for GLL championship

Sylvania's netmen came through with an outstanding year in 1967. Under the supervision of coach John Petterson, they obtained an overall record of 12 wins and 2 losses and went undefeated in the GLL. Senior Brian Bailey was the Sylvania team champion in singles competition and graduate Paul Cook and junior Rick Edelen held the honors in doubles.

'67 graduate Paul Haase hurled the Wildcats to a 16-7 season.

Winning six in a row before dropping a 2-1 decision to St. Francis, Sylvania's varsity baseball team started in a blaze of glory. After a mid-season slump, Sylvania reeled off nine wins in their last ten games including a 5-2 victory over Rogers which tied the Cats with Bedford for the GLL crown. Sylvania was knocked off in the first game of the Sectional Tournament by Woodward. In hitting, Greg Plant led the team batting at a .409 clip which gained him a berth on the All-State team. Paul Haase and Dave Ringle added extra power. Ed Bonkowski supplied timely hits in his pinch-hitting role.

In mid-August, three weeks before the first game, the Sylvania Wildcat football team started training drills. Scrimmages with Libbey, Rossford, and Macomber marked the pre-season practices. After their opening game with DeVilbiss, the Cats defeated Port Clinton. The season was highlighted by a 28-22 homecoming win over the previously undefeated Cardinal Stritch and victories in three of the final four games. The season record of 5-4-1 was the best since 1960. Co-captains Alan Borsos and Pete Zvara helped to spur the Wildcats to a winning season both defensively and offensively. In late November it was announced that three Wildcats placed on the All-Great Lakes League team. Seniors Alan Borsos, Dave Linn, and Rick Hill honored the Cats on the first unit. Linn also received honorable mention All-Northern Ohio.

Since its first season, four years ago, Sylvania's varsity and junior varsity cross country teams have remained undefeated in Great Lakes League competition. This year, Mr. George Tombaugh stepped into the coaching position and proved his merit by successfully upholding the team's winning tradition. Raising team spirit and drive became the job of senior co-captains Rick Ruch and Chris Metcalf. The team placed fourth in the district and qualified for the regional meet, in which they placed eighth. Junior Tom Smeed obtained a position on the GLL team, while junior Randy Smith, senior Brack Schertzer, and sophomore David Goldberg captured berths on the second squad of the All-League team.

An 8-2 league record and a 12-6 overall brought the 1967-68 Sylvania varsity basketball team the Great Lakes League Crown. This was the first time since 1955 that Sylvania won the GLL title. In their first game of the Sectional tournament at Whitmer, the Cats ended their season by losing to Rogers, 60-33. Coached by Mr. James McDonald, who had his fifth straight winning season, and rallied on by co-captains senior Larry Roby and junior Bob Crowther, the team lost only two games in League competition. With this year's team composed of only two seniors, Sylvania was considered a "kiddie" team by the Toledo Blade. Six juniors and two sophomores will return next year out of the 10-man squad.

South America sends Leonor, Karin in exchange programs

Ties were formed between countries as two young South American girls attended Sylvania. In September Leonor Ortiz sparked the new school year, coming under the American Field Service exchange program. Living at the home of Bonnie Braeutigam, she spent the full year at Sylvania. At the semester break, Karin Sievers, arriving from Chile, joined the student body. A representative of the Youth for Understanding exchange program, Karin lived with Judy Maedel, bringing with her the mariachi beat of the South Americans. Both Karin and Leonor gave SHS students a wider knowledge of their exciting culture.

Left, junior Ron Cavitt and seniors Laurie Long and Mary Riffe rest their aching feet during a lull in the music. Below left, dancers move to the soul sounds of "Baby Willy and the Fantasicks." Below, Sally looks back at Homecoming activities from her swing on the float Working together, cooperative seniors spent several months in early autumn building the 1967 Homecoming float. The boys hammered and wired to make the huge letters of SHS and the five gigantic footballs, while the girls stuffed tissue flowers into the chicken wire. Nearly everyone agreed that the work was worthwhile as they watched their float circle the field, carrying the queen and her court. Sylvania's 28-22 victory over Cardinal Stritch added to the spirited excitement that was in the air. But Homecoming did not end Friday night, for early Saturday morning, seniors met to complete decorations for the dance, "Touchdown at Twilight". The gym was transformed into a football field, and the decorated senior court was opened for everyone to catch a breath of air.

Stars prove talent in 'Diary of Anne Frank'

Emotional turmoils of wartime were revealed in the poignantly realistic play, Anne Frank: The Dairy of a Young Girl. The plot was taken from the recorded thoughts of Anne Frank while she was in exile from the mainstream of society for two years during WW II. Suffering the ugliness of war, and the changeability of human compassion, Anne Frank survived the congested secret annex in Amsterdam with her family and four other Jews. Despite the Gestapo's discovery of the hiding fugitives, these people were renewed with a brief light of inspiration, for finally the waiting had ended.

Sylvania juniors found their cafeteria transformed into a "Winternight's Enchantment," Saturday evening, December 2. Shiny stars suspended from the ceiling, pine trees, and large paper flowers lent to the atmosphere; these decorations coupled with the melodious strains of the Missing Links made for a most enjoyable evening. The queen was crowned at the stroke of ten. Following the coronation the couples returned to their dancing and munching on delectables.

Twice this year, students flocked to the cafeteria to enjoy the companionship of fellow students and a light breakfast of coffee, milk, and sweet rolls. The Magazine Breakfast, scheduled October 25, rewarded those students who sold $10 worth of magazines during one week of the two-week campaign. All DECA students, who were in charge of selling, attended the breakfast. The crowd ate more than anticipated, causing the kitchen to run out of food. Students were served by the male members of the Sylvania faculty. The Senior Breakfast was observed shortly before the Christmas holidays, December 12. This marked the final Christmas at Sylvania for the Class of '68. Santa Claus made a visit and distributed candy canes to "deserving" seniors. Following tradition, the junior boys catered the affair.

Sounds of soul captivate; fashion ingenues appeal

With a little bit of soul, several Sylvania students participated in bands during their spare time. Throughout the year, the musical groups were in demand for dances, opens, and private parties. The Glass City Combo, catering to the over-21 crowd, played at night clubs in the Toledo area such as the Beachwood and the Castaway as well as at private parties. Formerly known as the Rhythm Rockers, their sound ranged from the 'rock beat' to popular music. My Generation, a local rock band, played last summer at many of the tennis court dances, while the Harris Tweed, another rock 'n' roll band, was the choice of many school clubs who sponsored dances following home games.

A flair for fashion was developed among the members of Toledo Area Fashion Boards. After being selected following an audition in early spring, members enjoyed the latest make-up and styles. Such famous names as Bonnie-Bell and Yardley demonstrated the latest developments in make-up, while the newest styles were shown by well-known models from New York. Board members gained experience behind the scenes also as they worked and participated in fashion shows and beauty contests.

The thrill of perfect coordination and the ecstasy of a flawless performance are very rare. Pursuing these feelings in many ways, some Sylvania students tried for them through sports. Ballet, only a step from sports, because it is an art of skill and knowledge, attracted many girls. After bending and twirling their bodies these girls had a closer glimpse of how they could move with great beauty. Boys turned to the Oriental cults, judo and karate, to increase their own power. In feeling every muscle flex, the boys built their self-confidence and gained a frightening knowledge of their own strength. The endurance of judo, and the grace of ballet are combined in gymnastics. Working out on parallel bars or leaping on trampolines, these acrobats strived for excellence of form. In any sport where an absolute effort is necessary, the player is completely drained upon winning or losing. Swimming leaves even the winners gasping for air at the end of a meet. Horseback riding involves the same rewards as swimming — the feeling that every part of the body is working in one smooth movement.

Above: Junior Kya Bishop collects her equipment before venturing onto the slopes. Below: Julie Erkert, an advanced figure skater, demonstrates a well executed sit spin. Right: seniors Steve King and Dick Anthony emerge from the ice-ridden water after a frigid dive.

Dressed in mufflers and bundled in their warmest clothes, SHS'ers ventured out into the frozen landscape. After racing on flashing blades, hockey teams dispersed sustaining bumps and bruises. Other sport enthusiasts glided on frozen ponds or at indoor rinks, testing their skill on skates. While wearing rubber suits, the more thick-skinned boys dived into icy waters. The sensation of flying, coupled with the danger of broken bones, was encountered by many students as they confronted the slopes. On weekends, spill-prone novices flocked in increasing numbers to the popular near-by hills in Michigan.

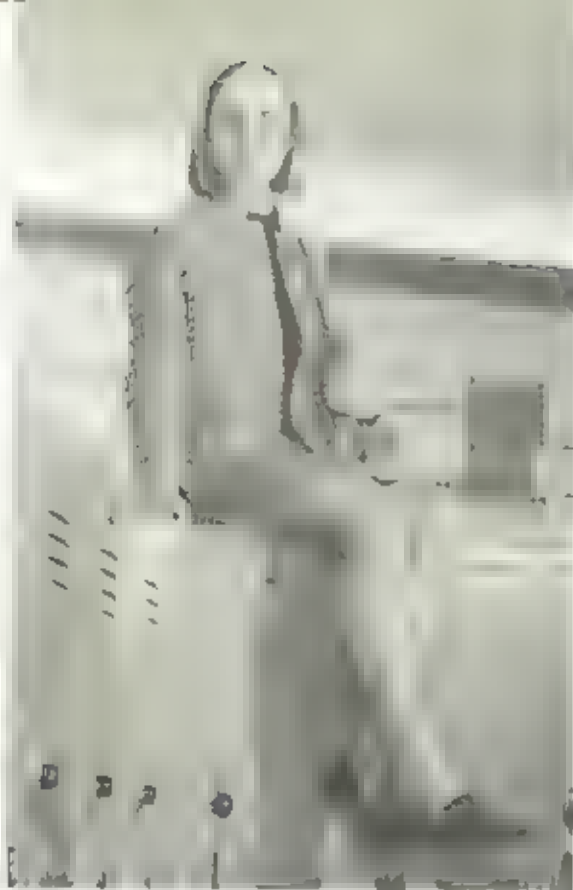

Chris, Cheryl chosen as Chief Wyan, Princess Dotte

Chris Metcalf was selected as the 1968 Chief Wyan. His range of activities in athletics and student government helped to qualify him for this position. He joined various athletic teams including JV basketball and varsity track. As a senior Chris was chosen as co-captain of the cross country team by his teammates. Chris represented his class all three years in Sylvania on Student Council and was named chairman of the organizations department while a senior. An active member of Hi-Y, he served that organization in the capacities of treasurer, secretary, and president, as a sophomore, junior, and senior, respectively. Chris also participated in I-Questers and was treasurer of Varsity "S".

A Thespian and a Drama Club and NFL member, Marc Smythe participated in most of the school plays and, as a senior, emceed the pep assemblies. Marc was co-editor of The Student Prints and was initiated into Quill & Scroll. A National Merit Finalist, Bob Meeker belonged to NFL, Speech Club, I-Questers and National Honor Society. He was elected vice president of his junior class and the next year chaired the Student Council projects committee. Bob took part in Drama Club, a cappella choir, and Math Club. Bob Knowles began his political career as sophomore class vice president and was co-chairman of Student Council's organizations department. In his junior year, he was elected Council's vice president. This year he headed that group's elections committee and was active in the Toledo Area Student Council.

Sally Eickholt rooted for Sylvania teams for three full years. Active in GAA and Camera Club, Sally was selected as a member of the junior prom court, and this year was chosen homecoming queen. She represented SHS on the Bowling Green scholarship team in Spanish, and later was initiated into National Honor Society and I-Questers. Another active cheerleader, Carol Smith served on Student Council as a representative for two years and as treasurer the past year. She was intramural chairman of GAA and belonged to Camera Club and FTA. Linda Gruener added her talents to The Student Prints by acting as copy editor. She organized homecoming activities and merited a position on the homecoming court. Linda sang in the a cappella choir for two years and participated actively in Camera Club and GAA.

Continuing an annual tradition at SHS, Cheryl Bartels was elected Princess Dotte by the senior class. The activities which helped her to win this honor were distributed among a variety of organizations within the school. Cheryl's spirited support of athletics earned her the position of cheerleader for all three years, and, while a senior, co-chairman of the homecoming bonfire and sportsmanship committee of Student Council. She was chosen junior prom queen and served as homecoming attendant this year. Her scholastic achievements earned her the privilege of membership in National Honor Society and I-Questers. Participation in a cappella choir, GAA, and Camera Club rounded out Cheryl's activities.

Seniors earn scholarships, gain honor memberships

An organization comprised of seniors who have obtained recognition for their scholarly accomplishments, the Quiz Bowl team competes with other area high schools. The Quiz Bowl has its origin in the Toledo Area Student Council and is produced on television as a public service. Members were named on the basis of faculty recommendation. The adviser, Mr. William Holfinger, totaled the nominees for a final appointment of its members and alternates. Students practiced two or three times per week after school, responding to questions submitted by themselves, past members, and teachers. The Quiz Bowl, appearing on WSPD-TV, defeated Ottawa Hills November 3 which qualified Sylvania for a second appearance. On December 29 the team lost to Swanton. Quiz Bowl members and alternates standing above from left, John Wells; Kathy Liden, alternate; Mark Brunner; and adviser, Mr. Holfinger. Sitting, Larry Roby; Mike Collette, Marybeth Shaul, and Bob Meeker, alternates.

Above, John Wells, Mike Collette, Marybeth Shaul, and Bob Meeker, National Merit semi-finalists, are caught in a moment of repose. Ron Sanderson was also a semi-finalist. Bottom: Smiling triumphantly are six satisfied scholarship winners. The recipients and their

Scholars promote ideals by devotion to excellence

Below right meeting in the resource center students enjoyed refreshments while waiting to meet the guest speakers. Above during the morning reception Mrs. Betty Ellis pours coffee for guests. Right a break in the assembly provides an opportunity for Diane Kennedy to question Dr. Thomas Moore.

Offering science and math students a chance to meet authoritative speakers, I-Questers sponsored its annual Science Symposium Wednesday, February 28. In addition to I-Quester members, interested students were invited to hear scientists from three colleges speak. A reception took place in the morning, followed by assemblies in the Little Theater. In the afternoon, specialized sessions in which students were permitted to question the speakers took place. Dr. Archie Solberg, from the University of Toledo, provided the introduction to the assembly. Dr. Thomas Moore, of the University of Michigan, spoke on cicadas. Also from Michigan, Dr. David Shappirio lectured on insects and hormones. Drs. John Meadors and Michael Rohovsky, from Ohio State University, spoke on lasers and germ-free animals, respectively. Covering the topic of fruit flies, Dr. Irwin Oster, of Bowling Green State University, concluded the assembly.

What a wonderful Open World

MADE IN U.S.A.

THE QUALITY MARK TO LOOK FOR

LIBBEY-OWENS-FORD

a Great Name in Glass
TOLEDO 2, OHIO

Have you noticed schools like this on your travels? Probably, because new buildings are springing up everywhere. They are beautiful and functional structures with large glass areas to create an "open-world" atmosphere to eliminate the feeling of being boxed in.

Wherever you live, work, shop or travel, you'll find L O F Glass making it more enjoyable. In homes, motels, schools and stores. In offices and factories. In hospitals and churches. In cars, buses, trains and planes.

There's an L O F Glass that insulates windows. It's called Thermopane® insulating glass. Another subdues sun heat and glare. L O F Glass that makes automobiles safer. L O F Glass to do a thousand things.

And when anyone needs glass, there's an authority on it nearby—your local independent L O F Glass Distributor or Dealer. His name is in the telephone book Yellow Pages under "Glass". Call him.

Laboratories, shops and studyrooms are separated from twin classroom buildings by a broad central court. Ithaca Senior High School, Ithaca, N.Y. Architects: Perkins & Will, White Plains, N.Y.

Eager faces bond
with others to follow the footsteps
left behind.

Again the ties of friend, student,
teacher, believer
join separate individuals to form a harmonious union.
Bridges span differences to weld the links in the continuous chain of life.

A hush
surrounds the structure of learning
as adults emerge to stand alone.
Lockers are closed and the last bell rings.
Memories
pervade the hearts
of all who struggled to excel.
Door of the unknown future opens.

Joy and sorrow,
tears and laughter
echo
in the now silent
chambers.
The chain is broken
as each link faces
a future of promise.
All choose their own destiny with hope and ambition.

[illegible]

I can't write all kinds of fakey junk
 like kid whose name I forgot as anything like that so I'll just say Good luck and See you this summer

Don't Burnard

Marie,
 You a real cool
 girl that has been a class in years.
 Good Luck - stay the darling person you are Marilyn
 "70"

Marie,
 I don't know you real well but I think you're a really sweet girl. I hope your
 in a study hall of mine
 next year.
 You never ridge + to use that squirt gun
 did you?
 Good Luck,
 Roberto
